

I am very opposed to modifying Indiana's Do Not Call legislation. I do not believe the federal government has the right to pass legislation that invades my privacy. I pay for my telephone services; therefore, if I chose not to take unsolicited calls, that should be my choice. Being on the Do Not Call list is an option, not a mandate. I do not wish to be bothered by banks, or others. If you even consider this legislation, I want you to make it mandatory that they publish a directory on line of their departments, so we can call them at will. Ever try that?
